Red Cloud Indian School is a Catholic Institution administered by the Jesuits and the Lakota people. Established in 1888, Red Cloud Indian School is located on the vast Pine Ridge Indian Reservation. Covering more than 2.8 million acres in southwestern South Dakota, it is the second-largest reservation in the United States.

For more than 600 Lakota students each year, Red Cloud Indian School provides an education that opens the doors to a brighter future. The Red Cloud curriculum is tailored to at-risk Native American students who are learning in today's world while taking pride in their rich heritage. There are two elementary schools, Red Cloud Elementary School and Our Lady of Lourdes, which are kindergarten to eighth grade. Red Cloud High School is ninth through twelfth grade and educates about 220 students annually.

The campus is also home to the Holy Rosary Mission Church and to the Heritage Center, home to some of the finest collections of Native American Art in the world.
